GENOCIDE IN BURMA

HELP NOW.

Recent clashes in Arakan (Myanmar/Burma) has left more than 1,000 Muslims dead and over 90,000 Muslims have been forced out of their homes and villages since the violence began in June. Most of the Arakanese fleeing the violence are seeking refuge in camps in neighbouring Bangladesh. However, faced with unimaginably inhumane conditions at these camps Arakanese Muslims are losing hope. More than 300 Muslim villages, Masjids and Madrasahs were burned to the ground.

A large number of Muslims are currently jailed and are subjected to torture whilst thousands more are homeless and find themselves as the targets for security forces once the night falls. A serious humanitarian crisis is unfolding in the region as the violence continues and many more of our Muslim brothers, sisters and children are killed, raped, tortured and burnt alive.
